WASHINGTON, Feb. 23, 1862.

THE MODE OF GOVERNMENT FOR THE TERRITORY DISCOVERED.
The pending cases of title to the Territory of Colorado have been referred to the committee on the mode of government for the Territory of Colorado. The committee has been instructed to report on the mode of government for the Territory of Colorado. The committee has been instructed to report on the mode of government for the Territory of Colorado.

THE DISPOSITION OF PROMINENT REBEL PRISONERS.
Mr. Richardson's proposition in regard to the disposition of the prominent rebels who are or may be taken prisoners meets with general favor. The disposition is to turn all these cases over to the civil authorities, to be treated as traitors. The indictment against Simon Bolivar Buckner, the spy and traitor, offers a case in point upon which the provisions of this bill are founded.

REPORT OF THE SURRENDER OF COLUMBUS.
The dispatch from Columbus, dated to-day, received at headquarters, says the steamer "Columbus" from Cuba, which was reported to have been captured by the Union fleet, and was reported to have been captured by the Union fleet, and was reported to have been captured by the Union fleet.

INTERNAL MACHINES IN THE SAVANNAH RIVER.
Despatches have been received at the Navy Department from Commodore Dupont, dated Fort Royal, February 18, enclosing a report from Commodore Rodgers, in which he says, while sounding in the Savannah river, a short distance above the mouth of the Wright river, he discovered several objects floating upon the surface, which appeared at first sight to be empty tin cans, and as such were not regarded by him as worthy of notice.

THE BUREAU OF THE SAVANNAH RIVER.
Lieutenant Sproston, of the Senate, shortly after he had been informed of the objects alluded to were buoys attached to an internal machine. Upon closer examination they were found to be buoys, five in number, were placed several yards apart at right angles to the shore, immediately in the channel leading from Wright river, and visible only at low water. They were connected by a spiral wire, the end of the wire entering an orifice in the upper ends of the buoys. They were also secured by wires to what they presumed to be weights at the bottom.

AN ATTEMPT WAS SUBSEQUENTLY MADE TO PRODUCE AN EXPLOSION BY PULLING THE WIRES, WHICH FAILED.
The wires were then cut, and the outer buoy was brought off in one of the expedition boats. In consequence of the delicate nature of the exploding apparatus, and the result of the examination of the buoy brought on board, it was deemed more prudent to endeavor to sink the remaining buoys rather than attempt to remove them; so that the enemy should not have the satisfaction of feeling that a single life had been lost by the diabolical contrivance.

THE BUREAU OF THE SAVANNAH RIVER.
The buoys were sunk by firing rifle shots into them, one having exploded the night previous from some cause, unknown, and shortly after a launch had passed over the spot where the buoys were placed, having in tow a heavy lighter with guns. It further appears that the torpedo or internal machine brought on board the "Undulla" was afterwards set upon a bank and a rifle ball fired through it, when it exploded.

THE OBSERVATIONS OF WILLIAM LINCOLN—CLOSING THE DEPARTMENTS.
The embayed body of little Willie Lincoln was visited to-day by a number of the friends of the family. The body was laid out in a plain suit of brown cloth, with a shroud of white muslin over it.

OPERATIONS ON THE POTOMAC.
Our Naval Correspondence.

UNITED STATES STEAMER STEPPING STONES,
OCCOQUAN BAY, POTOMAC RIVER, FEB. 23, 1862.
Spirited action between the Stepping Stones and the Rebel Battery of five guns.

Quite a brisk little action has just taken place in Occoquan Bay, between the Stepping Stones and a rebel battery of five guns. This morning we ran alongside the Yankee, now the flagship, when a rifled twelve pounder, belonging to that vessel, was put on board of us. The gun, which, while on board the Yankee, had been mounted on a slide, was placed on a field carriage, in view of our high bulwarks.

Assistant Commanding Eastman came on board, with the flag, and took temporary command. We then laid off, towing the launch, when the launch again came alongside, and was made fast astern. The launch and crew had found nothing suspicious in the launch. We then stood for Freestone Point, the launch having been again sent on shore on the way down for another dunnage violation, but nothing illegal was found. Sufficient time had now elapsed for the rebel to bring their gun to bear, when the launch again came alongside, and was made fast astern. The launch and crew had found nothing suspicious in the launch. We then stood for Freestone Point, the launch having been again sent on shore on the way down for another dunnage violation, but nothing illegal was found.

It was evident that something was up, and it soon became known that Occoquan Bay was to be reconnoitered. We ran up three or four miles, when the launch was cast loose, and proceeded towards the shore to search some house near the beach. We threw in one shell from the side, under cover of which the launch was effected. The Stepping Stones then stood towards a schooner, lower down the creek. On our way a four horse wagon was seen making its way along, a little above the beach. We lay to for a short time, when the launch again came alongside, and was made fast astern. The launch and crew had found nothing suspicious in the launch. We then stood for Freestone Point, the launch having been again sent on shore on the way down for another dunnage violation, but nothing illegal was found.

and after the attack on the Massachusetts troops in Baltimore, on the 19th of April, with his regiment—which was then mustered as the Twenty-third Pennsylvania Infantry regiment—to guard the road between Wilmington and Perryville. Subsequently he joined General Patterson's column, and was in the battle of Falling Waters. By permission of General McClellan he added five companies to his regiment, which is now the largest in the service. It is now stationed on the Maryland side of the Potomac. General Barry was recently appointed a Brigadier, and assigned to his present command.

His Assistant Adjutant will be Captain David Hunter Strother, of Martinsburg, Va., who, as an artist, is familiar by the sobriquet of "Yor Crayon." His sketches of travel through Virginia, North Carolina and other Southern States are humorous and graphic. For the last six months he has been employed under the direction of the Chief of Topographical Engineers. His father was the first Virginia gentleman who came to assure President Lincoln that the Union men of Virginia would stand by him in his efforts to uphold the constitution and preserve the Union.

Lieut. Fasset, formerly Adjutant of the Twenty-third Pennsylvania regiment, will be the General's Aid-de-Camp.

No further change will be made in the staff.

Dr. Daniel McRuer, the Brigade Surgeon, is a gentleman of extensive experience, and, at the request of General McClellan, has visited all the divisions in the Army of the Potomac, for the purpose of introducing his admirable system of warming and ventilating military hospitals.

Captain Owen and Captain Smith, the Brigade Quartermaster and Commissary, are both gentlemanly, who have been the esteem of the whole command.

The brigade is equal to any in the service. The first of the Army of the Potomac, for the purpose of introducing his admirable system of warming and ventilating military hospitals.

THE STATEMENT THAT THE STEAMER VICTORIA TOOK 15,000 STANDS OF ARMS TO NEW ORLEANS PROVED UNTRUE.

Assistant Quartermaster Fox has received a letter from a friend in New York, saying the statement of a Richmond paper that 15,000 stands of arms which arrived at New Orleans on the steamer Victoria, which necessarily ran the blockade to that port, is not true. A reliable passenger, who came out from New Orleans to Havana in the Victoria, says that she was able to obtain there only 150 guns, and these were all the arms she took back on her return. The New Orleans militia are not yet there, supplied with arms.

THE CHARGES AGAINST MARSHAL LAMON.

The recent paragraph in this correspondence, with regard to recent disclosures, exonerating Marshal Lamon from certain charges in connection with the jail, had no reference to the testimony given before the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia, and which will not be made public until all the evidence shall be taken. The information was derived from other sources, the correctness of which, like that of many other things, is controverted.

MOVEMENTS OF GENERAL BUTLER.

Major General Butler is here making the final arrangements for his expedition. They are entirely satisfactory.

MOVEMENTS OF CARL SCHURZ.

Carl Schurz, United States Minister to Santiago, at the time he came on leave, with the intention of taking part in the war, will not take the field immediately unless his services should be specially requested. He will return to Europe and resume his duties.

THE NAVY.

The bill recently unanimously reported from the House Committee on Naval Affairs to re-establish the grade of line officers of the navy proposes important changes, one of which is to create nine flag officers, or admirals, to be selected not below the grade of commanders, who shall have experience, courage, skill and genius in preparing for and in actual battle, and received the thanks of Congress as a preliminary to promotion, the leading principle being to select such officers irrespective of seniority. The other features of the bill offer encouragement to merit.

WITHDRAWAL OF REBEL PRISONERS.

The rebels have withdrawn their pickets from the Occoquan, about twenty miles from Alexandria.

MOVEMENTS IN THE WEST—DEPARTURE OF GENERAL BUELL AND STAFF FOR LOUISVILLE, &c., &c.

General Buell left here several days ago, and proceeded in the direction of Nashville. His staff leave here to-morrow morning for the place of his destination.

It is reported that many of the negroes taken some time since from the Green river country of Kentucky by the rebels, to aid in fortifying Nashville, took advantage of the panic created there by the taking of Fort Henry and Donelson, and are making their way back to their old homes. They say it was too late to fortify Nashville.

It is understood that the rebels proposed destroying the bridges and road near Nashville on their retreat thitherward, but the citizens along the road remonstrated and prevented it.

Rumors which cannot be traced to any reliable source have prevailed all day of the evacuation of Nashville by the rebels.

Arrival of Prisoners from Fort Donelson—Their Condition—Willingness to Take the Oath of Allegiance—Much Sickened among Them, &c., &c.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 23, 1862.

The Cincinnati Independent dispatch says that 5,000 Fort Donelson prisoners have arrived there during the last twenty-four hours. They are the hardest looking set of men ever collected together, unharmed in ragged old clothes, with carpets for blankets. The private account of this collection is as follows: They are better treated and fed here than they have been for the past six months. Most of the men are anxious to take the oath. Three of their surgeons have been sent to attend to their sick, which are becoming quite numerous. The officers are not unharmed, and don't look much superior to the private prisoners.

The prisoners are composed of the Fourth and Thirteenth Mississippi, Eighth Kentucky, Fourth Alabama, Twenty-sixth Kentucky, and Fifty-third Tennessee.

Non-Arrival of the Old Point Boat.

The Old Point boat has not yet returned; probably detained by the dense fog. She will scarcely get in to-night.

Active Military Movements in the West.

From St. Louis, St. Paul, and other points, the military movements still continue. The city is apparently full of soldiers all the time, and to judge from the amount of military men constantly seen in the streets, it would seem that all our male inhabitants had suddenly joined the army, and were without employment. This results from the fact that soldiers are constantly pouring into St. Louis from the Northwest, Northeast and Southwest, to be speedily transported to the seat of war in Tennessee. Our streets are full of regiments, and our hotels full of officers.

Last evening we observed three steamboats, viz.: The John J. Roe, War Eagle and Edward Walsh, coming up the river. The War Eagle and Edward Walsh were loaded with soldiers, and the John J. Roe was loaded with provisions. The three boats were bound for St. Louis, and will arrive here to-day, which troops will go to meet them by land.

The steamer Henry Chouteau will leave for Cumberland river to-day, fully loaded with mules.

The steamer David Taylor is expected to arrive from Alton at dark to-night, with a portion of Bragg's cavalry on board. This regiment is from Chicago. It consists of 1,200 men, without arms, and will go into Benton Barracks at present. The horses of the regiment are very fine, and all it lacks are arms, which will be procured, to fit it for active service. This regiment will come down from Alton by detachments as rapidly as it can be transported.

Two battalions of the Second Michigan regiment of cavalry, who were sent to the front, are being sent back to the rear, and will be delivered by the steamer William F. Morgan, of St. Thomas' church. Subject—"Justice and Integrity."

THE Jura Outward Bound.

PORTLAND, Feb. 23, 1862.

A Jura sailed at a quarter past five this afternoon.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

At present we are not aware of any new theatrical or musical enterprise in the city. The only new theatrical or musical enterprise in the city is the one which is being conducted by the Brooklyn Academy of Music, which is being conducted by the Brooklyn Academy of Music, which is being conducted by the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

THEATRICAL AND MUSICAL.

The past week has been marked by two events of interest in the dramatic line—the revival of the "Olden Days," at Niblo's, and the production of the new Irish drama, "The Maheary, or Peep O'Day," at Laura Keane's. Apart from the interest of the story and the effectiveness of its mise en scene, the appearance of Mrs. John Wood in the part of Elly O'Connor was in itself sufficient to attract curiosity. It was a bold venture for her to attempt a part so largely. That she succeeded so well is a proof that she is capable of understanding a wider range of parts than that to which she has hitherto confined herself. The piece was a complete success, with its new cast, and is proving a profitable card to the management. The new drama at Laura Keane's, "The Maheary, or Peep O'Day," is in great part a new creation. It is a great part of the new creation. It is a great part of the new creation. It is a great part of the new creation.

At Wallace's Keno's charming comedy of "The Wonder: A Woman Keeps a Secret," was played twice last week. It is one of the most showy and amusing of the series of standard comedies with which Mr. Wallace is favoring us. The intrigues and mistakes, amours and jealousies, disguises and concealments, misapprehensions and misrepresentations which constitute the charm of this sort of half Spanish, half fairy comedy, are employed by Mr. Wallace to the best possible advantage. The music and songs, and the variety of the scenes, are ingeniously mixed up with the plot, and the result is a play very amusing and highly probable. The comedy was admirably acted, and the scenery and appointments were rich, tasteful and elegant. To-night O'Keefe's fine old standard comedy of "Wild Oats" will be produced at this establishment for the first time. To-morrow will be given the "School for Scandal," on Wednesday, "The Bull's Stratagem" (first time), and on Thursday, "A Cure for the Heartache."

At the Winter Garden Mr. J. S. Clarke and the beautiful actress have been crowding the house nightly. This evening the latter takes her benefit, on which occasion Mr. Clarke will make his last appearance. He will play two of his best comic parts, and the comedies will also favor the audience with three of her most admired dances, "The Arrangement," "The Fien de Seville" and the "El Olo." On Tuesday, "The Fien de Seville" will be given. On Wednesday, "The Fien de Seville" will be given. On Thursday, "The Fien de Seville" will be given. On Friday, "The Fien de Seville" will be given.
